

Aavik, Ansuz, Børresen

This trio of brands all work very closely together, to provide a complete audio solution, comprising Aavik Acoustics electronics, Ansuz Acoustics cables, power products, network switches and resonance controllers, and Børresen Acoustics delivering the goods in terms of loudspeakers. While each works independently and delivers good sound on their own, in combination they are greater than the sum of their parts. Even if those parts are some of the best in the business.

All three companies are keen innovators and each company's highly respected products are subject to continual update and upgrade, all utilising the visionary design skills of Michael Børresen. Whether upgrading a cable or resonance controller, changing high-end loudspeakers, or trying new electronics, it's highly possible that you will end up with a complete system from this power trio.
